Honor Code Revised

Students don't need to leave Provo just to have something to do during the Thanksgiving recess.

Numerous activities and turkey dinners are being planned for students with nowhere to go.

According to Duane Williams, chairman of the Hospitality Committee, Provo residents, BYU faculty and staff members will have a chance to invite BYU students to their homes for Thanksgiving dinner.

Interested parties should call 3-2984 or 373-7790 and ask for Linda or Barbara, and leave their name, phone number and the number of students they wish to invite. After Monday this information may be left by calling 374-21, extension 3625.

FOR STUDENTS

Students interested in having dinner with Provo townspeople could call Karen at 374-6393 and leave their name and phone number. Deadline for all calls is Monday at 5 p.m.

Units of students wishing to participate and their host families will be made, and the families will tell the students to extend invitations. International students and those who have traveled long distances to attend BYU are particularly

The BYU Honor Code has been revised.

"The Code was changed to place more responsibility on students and less on the Honor Council," said Bob Baird, Student Activities advisor.

The new Code reads, "Responsibility for all controlling measures under the Honor Code rests with all people involved: faculty, staff and students."

The Code applies not only to students, but is also binding on employees of BYU.

NEW REQUIREMENT

A new requirement has been added: Those at BYU are expected to "refrain from the possession, dispensing, and/or use of amphetamines, barbiturates, hallucinogenic drugs, psychedelic drugs, and narcotics, except as they may be prescribed by a licensed, practicing physician."

Classroom procedures during examinations have also been changed.

Copies of the revised Honor Code will be distributed soon, according to Tag Taggart, Chairman of the Honor Council.

American Week ...

Harvey To Speak

Paul Harvey, ABC news commentator and national newspaper columnist, will highlight BYU American Week Dec. 3-9.

Harvey will be featured speaker the American Week spectacular "The Torch of Freedom,"

Thursday, Dec. 7 (Pearl Harbor) at 8 p.m. in the Smith Field.

Well-known for his daily state-of-the-nation radio broadcasts, the famous news analyst was voted commentator of the Year in 1962 and "Man of the Year" in 1963 in a poll taken by New York's Radio-Television Daily of over 600 critics across the country. Harvey should be submitted by Nov. 27 at the fourth floor receptionist desk.

Speeches must be on the theme "Patriotism In Our Contemporary Society" and should be eight minutes long. First, second and third place winners will be awarded cash prizes of $50, $25 and $10. Trophies will also be presented to first and second place winners.

Preliminaries for the contest will be Nov. 28 and 29.

CHALLENGE

Here is the world's swiftest turtle.

"But not for long," reported two Arizona State Univ. Students in a letter to two BYU co-eds.

"Anything a BYU student can do, an ASU student can do better—that goes for turtles, too," steamed the two 'sun' devils.

"The challenger's diet will be Dr. Pepper and Coughburgers with chewed up Cougar to be ground in Sun Devil Stadium this week, end," they snorted.

Meanwhile Harvey's trainers are brewing creamed Sun Devil on toast.

Second Place Push ...

ASU Looms Big

By Gary Wood

Universe Sports Editor

Arizona State's Sun Devils have been heating up their pickpicks for two weeks in preparation for the visit Saturday of Coach Tom Hudspeth's BYU footballers.

The encounter between the Western Athletic Conference foes will be broadcast on KSL beginning at 7:45 p.m.

The Sun Devils drew a bye last week while the Cougars were edging Arizona, 17-14, in a Provo Homecoming game.

Prestige and a possible postseason bowl bid are on the line in the Tempe contest, and both teams are anxious to improve on their season records, which stand at 4-2 overall for the Sun Devils and 5-3 for the Cougars.

SECOND PLACE

It will be a battle for second place in the conference as the BYU gridgers stand 3-1 against WAC opponents and Arizona State, with a game remaining against Arizona, has a 2-1 mark.

The Devils are leading the conference and are third nationally in scoring with a 34.6 average compared with BYU's 23.6; the Cougars are slightly ahead in scoring defense, having held opponents to 22.0 while ASU has given up 22.6 points per game.

In outings against common foes, BYU beat Oregon State, 31-13, while the Beavers downed ASU, 27-21; both defeated Utah—BYU by 17-13 and the Sun Devils by 48-32—and both clobbered New Mexico—the Cougars by 44-14 and Arizona State by 56-23.

1966 LOSS

When the two teams met last year on a very cold October night in Cougar Stadium, the Sun Devils outlasted the Cougars to eke out a 10-7 win in what was perhaps the poorest game the Pumas played all year.

Student Opinion ...

Billiards Pros, Cons Given

BYU students are speaking out on billiards:

Kathy Burns, a junior from Dallas, Tex., feels "the guys would like it so much they wouldn't go to class."

"It might attract the local hoods if we had billiards here," said Bill Cantrell, a Spanish major from Georgia. And "it might be inconsistent with the spirit and image of BYU," another student pointed out.

Others disagree.

GOOD FOR CENTER

"Billiards would do for the Wilkinson Center what the 'Era of Youth' does for the Improvement Era," commented one student.

Janice Walker, a freshman from Pleasant Grove majoring in elementary education likes to play billiards. And she thinks "it should be in a good atmosphere."

Jerry Conley, a junior concentrating in Latin American Studies, also enjoys the game. "But there aren't many good places to play. I don't like to go in bars to play billiards."

Administration spokesmen have made no further comment.

AWARDS

Harvey has been awarded several honorary doctoral degrees, and gold medals from the Valley Forge Freedom Foundation and American Veterans and American Legion citations including the 50th Annual Estate Award and the 1966 Colonial American and (1965).

In 1965 he was launched as a dedicated newspaper columnist by General Features Corporation, New York. He is the author of two books and has made three radio albums.

Keep Honor In The Code

The honor code is an important part of BYU and we believe it is one of the things which makes this school great.

This year's faculty handbook contains a list of points in the honor code and urges teachers to do their best to encourage students to abide by said points.

The strange thing is that not many students are aware of the honor code in the faculty books—since this is slightly different than last year's honor code.

The reason for this is that last summer students proposed that the faculty should also have to abide by the same honor code that students had adopted for themselves. The proposal was sent to the BYU Administration and the result was that because of a difference of opinion on what students could and could not do—the code was sent to the General Authorities of the Church of Jesus Christ of Latter-day Saints—for their approval.

They gave their approval and returned the code with a few ramifications. We have no objections to when they did this since they were asked to give their approval of the code.

The point is—when the code returned, students did not have the opportunity to vote on it.

The faculty handbook was ready for the press and the new code—which was similar but not a duplicate of last year's was printed.

Now, most faculty members believe that the code they are enforcing is the one students voted on.

This is not true. Since this year's honor council seems to be getting along fine and promises newer and better things, we suggest that as soon as possible honor council members present a "new" honor code for a student vote. J. S.

Billiards

Editor:

I read Scott Ostler's letter in the Universe but I didn't feel good about it. I hope that he was merely using sarcasm to show his desire for the school to operate some billiard tables. I have no objection to him speaking up for billiards but I work in the Games Center and I am offended when someone tells me that I work in a "feticularious and degrading activity."

President Hugh B. Brown came into the Games Center during homecoming and howled a line. I must say Brother Ostler that I didn't feel that I was "degrading" President David O. McKay's counselor when I gave him some instruction on a few of the techniques of bowling.

In fact, to save some space in the Universe and so that you will be able to better understand, if you will come to the Games Center I will treat you to an ice cream bar and show you around the bowling area so that you can see what a wholesome place our bowling alley really is.

Henry Brown

Editor's Note: We agree with you and direct Mr. Ostler's attention to the following picture our photographers took of President Brown when he howled a few lines in the Wilkinson Center.

Honorable?

Editor:

According to Judy Mohrmann (Tuesday, Nov. 14) "The Y" is an honorable institution where only the honorable belong." Yes, it truly is an honorable institution. Where else would there be a revision of an honor code without consulting the faculty or students who are expected to live under it?

We doubt if Judy Mohrmann even knows what is in the current code she is sworn to uphold.

Does she know that it was altered this summer (revised Aug. 29, 1967), and that it is no longer enforced by her fellow students and that it now requires her to be "gracious," not to covet, to obey both ecclesiastical and secular law, and to be judged in these areas not by regularly constituted authority (note D&C 107:72; 88:17-18 which indicate that the Bishop is to be an ecclesiastical judge) but by a nebulous thing known as the "standards committee?"

We called the "standards committee" and discovered that they have no copies of the new honor code for distribution to students; they referred us to the honor council which does not have a phone.

In further pursuance of a copy of the new honor code we were informed by someone over in the student offices that they didn't know how we could get a revised copy.

Something as important as revision of the honor code should be put to the sustaining vote of the students who are expected to live by it. Let us remember that honor is a two-way street based on love, respect, and TRUST.

Fertility

Editor:

We would like to apologize to Mr. Hal Williams for marrying his spirit of Homecoming. At the same time we would clarify several points of misunderstanding.

The shadow which appeared on the rear of our float was not a symbol of fertility, fertilizer, communism, hippies, or psychotic sickness. It was the universal symbol of peace. It is very probable that in your travels you have seen such symbols on "hippies, peaceniks, communists, and other such ilk." Despite their shortcomings each of these groups believes in an ultimate peace. We do not agree with many of their ideas and the methods they use. We do feel that "A Search for Peace" is a worthwhile theme, however, and that peace is a noble ideal. By the way, Mr. Williams, so does the Post Office Department. Look very closely at the next envelope you receive in the mail.

Group of Students

Radical

Editor:

It has recently come to our attention that a radical student group proposes to send the turtle Ho Chi Minh, to North Vietnam.

Now we, being students of this institution, are fully aware that subversive groups sometimes will slip in unawares, taking advantage of the seeming anonymity, which a mass university such as BYU provides, and try to perpetuate such a fraud upon the student body.

In case the noble thought inspired editorialists of our paper are unaware of the fact, let me remind the journalistic staff and those concerned that the materials found in turtle shells have recently been found invaluable in contributing to the physical make up of our sophisticated KCMJ daily system components. (Nation's Business, p. 89, June 28, 1967.)

Michael and Herbert Allen
Amazed

Editor:

We are amazed at the energy some BYU students display when trying to save the lives of surplus turtles.

Possibly the actions could be justified if some of the turtles were exceptional among their species or if some individual had grown fondly attached to them. This I doubt very much.

Pretending to save them from death at the hands of the sinister and evil biological departments is folly. For one thing the biological department will get their quota of dead turtle meat one way or another. Secondly, the purpose of God's animals is to serve man.

The Kays

WITH WANDERING AW

The Hustler

Vs. BYU

by Jaron Summe

It looks like the game of billiards isn't going to make it to BYU for a few more years, since it has been deemed unfavorable.

But then a lot of things have been deemed unfavorable and maybe it is just as well—since the reason BYU is so favorable is that there are not many unfavorable things around the campus.

(By the way that last platitude is great to memorize as a rebuttal to U of U students who claim we are square. Nevertheless, people who like to play billiards should not despair since The Powers That Be are toy with the idea of bringing a new game to campus.)

The game is played on a felt-covered rectangular table. Long sticks are used to push colored balls around. The sport is called pool.

Although it rhymes with tool, it is not a tool of devil. (This does not mean it is not evil but rather that the devil is not allowed on campus. According to the 12 faculty handbook, the devil is supposed to keep at least four blocks from the campus.)

Any number can participate in the game of fool—a matter of fact, the entire student body can play it all once.

FOOL POINTS

The object of scoring in fool is to get points.

Points are assigned according to the color of the eye. People with blue eyes get blue points and those with brown eyes get brownie points. (Green-eyed people are encouraged to meow.) A blue-eyed player may take over a brown-eyed player's points by catching the brown-eyed player cheating and reporting him to the standards office.

Double bonus points are awarded if the blue-eyed player can tell without the brown-eyed player's knowledge.

As mentioned, any number may participate in a game of fool. Usually, however, the game moves most quickly if only two play.

In the beginning, each player is given a long stick and a faculty member acts as referee. The faculty member gives a boring speech on the importance of the honor code and the first player to tell him what a good job he gets to start the game.

The beginning player strikes the ball and yells in pious voice: "Evil, evil," as many times as he can before the ball stops rolling.

The second player then smacks the ball and screams "Wicked, wicked," as many times as he can before the ball stops rolling.

The player who yells the most wicked or evil words wins the first half of the game.

For the second half of the game, the two fool players write an essay of not more than 5,000 words on why it is evil to toss a coin at the beginning of football games to determine who is going to kick off.

BONUS POINTS

Bonus points are awarded—in the form of scholarships to the religion department—for essays which contain footnotes published by the Associated Students of Brigham Young University for students, faculty, administration and staff.

Plaques are presented on paragraphs which may look as though gambling for money in a run-down saloon room and flipping a coin on the gridiron are the same thing.

The essay is judged on the number of antiquated ideas it contains and whether or not the author causes a reduction in student participation on campus. The more the essay does away with participation, the high points it scores.

In case of ties, each player is asked to name all 10 words he can think of which rhyme with fool.

The first player to come up with "fool" loses because as everyone knows, that game is evil, wicked, depraved and may cause a person to turn to a life of crime and violence.

The winner has the option of ten free billiard lessons in an off-campus snooker room or washing the losing player's mouth out with blue chalk dust.

SUPPORT FITCH
 Since many individuals have recently concerned themselves with verbally "stunting the rowth" of the athletics office (referring specifically to the October 30 editorial), perhaps a more positive support for Bob Fitch and his co-workers is order.

As spectators of games, rallies, and promotional activities concerning BYU's athletic events, it is quite simple to sit back and criticize as we situate yawns of boredom caused by our own lack of interest. It might not have been necessary to throw out such obvious views of no-confidence in our Cougar Days had there been a little more genuine support during the week. It's very easy for us to be too forthright at a small portion of the dedication and hard work that each person within the athletics office gives to his position, we would not deny the steady flow of extremely constructive criticism a little hard to swallow.

Growing pains? Yes, the recently-formed athletics office has some. But I'm glad that Bob, V, and Stan have the courage to grow. It's almost a pity that no other organizations aren't a little more willing to try to grow, also.

Sincerely,
 Cindy Lawrence

FATHER WRITES
 Editor:
 You may rule that as the son of a BYU student, I have the right to express myself in an excellent newspaper. Something happened last week that gave our family a good laugh. Our oldest boy, Lynn, came home one evening and said, "The Symphonix Band is giving a party next Saturday. I have a date with the cutest girl. Can I use the car that he has?" I said, "Sure, what's her name?" He said, "Her name is Rickie and she's really a little." I said, "That's nice, where she from?" By this time I was beginning to get a little suspicious. I was sure when he answered, "She's from Falls Church." I said, "I hate to tell you, but with 10,000 dolls up there to choose from you picked her cousin." Of course he almost flipped but the story isn't ended. He picked her up a little while on Saturday evening and brought her out to our home in Provo. We were formally introduced, etc. . . . and I assumed that he had told her of our relationship. I said to Marie, "How's she these days?" When that expression of disbelief appeared, I realized that I was asking the news to her also.

She said, "Do you know my mother?" I said, "Certainly, she is my first cousin." You might have expected this would ease a pall on the whole evening but it didn't. They had a great time—even the Charleston contest.

INSUFFERABLE
 Editor:
 Charles M. Grill is an example of the type of person for whom no degree of privilege would evoke gratitude.

If he can't justify college deferments from induction on the basis of the "national interest," on what basis will he justify them? If the national interest is an "abhorrent" moral principle to him, just what is the infinitely higher moral principle which seems to allow Mr. Grill to justify his peace, freedom and safety here in school while thousands of others are bleeding and dying?

But most important, can't we disagree with Mr. Hershey's policies without denying his credit for being a moral human being? I am an LDS, but the last two paragraphs of Mr. Grill's letter, especially his extravagant word "abhorrent" is an insufferable example of an all too common LDS bigotry. The implied idea that anyone who is not a member of the church couldn't possibly have "an integrated, consistent, code of morality" or be a "lover of life and liberty."

NOBLE?
 Editor,
 We have been pleased to see student causes "championed" this year by our studentbody president, Paul Gilbert. We would like to raise another inequity to the minds of our student leaders. Last year, the spring semester lasted from February 1 to May 25 graduation. This included finals from the 17th to the 23rd. This spring, classes will begin January 31 and graduation will not be held until May 31. Finals are to be from the 22nd to the 30th with no scheduled dead week. In other words, as we count it this year it takes a week longer to finish spring classes than last year, even though the fall semester periods have remained the same.

Could it be our great and noble administration is going to "allow" the students a spring vacation or perhaps a dead week?

We suggest inquiry into this matter . . . after all, who likes to stay in classes any longer than necessary?

Sincerely,
 Jim Brooks

BLACKOUT
 Editor:
 After reading E. C. Kraus' letter, it seems that he is the one that has to worry about blacking out, especially while writing letters to the editor.

Does he really think the students of BYU are going to inhale his exhaust fumes?

Mr. Kraus states that he is a test driver for Formu 1 machines for "a leading Japanese manufacturer." Since Honda is the only one that deals with this type of machine, logic has it that he works for Honda. Has Honda ever heard of E. C. Kraus? I doubt it unless they have expanded their product line to include slot cars—and that's probably about as close as he has ever been to a track.

It seems that Mr. Kraus' letter is not as much of an argument against skydiving as it is an attempt to self-inflate his own ego. Sky-diving just happened to be a handy "goat."

'Model Cities' Grants Go To 63 Communities

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The government Thursday announced the names of 63 cities chosen to receive the first "Model Cities" planning grants. They range in size from New York City to Pikeville, Ky.

Washington, D. C., is one of those selected. The others are in 33 states and Puerto Rico.

The cities will share $11 million of planning money. They will now be expected to draw up detailed plans for eliminating social and physical blight in entire neighborhoods.

The population of the cities range from New York's eight million to Pikeville's 5,000.

A total of 183 cities applied for the planning money. Once the plans are in for the 63 picked, the government will select the best ones to put into effect, with the help of special federal money.

However, Secretary Robert C. Weaver of the Department of Housing and Urban Development (HUD) told a news conference that the 130 cities that failed to receive planning grants would be eligible for a second competition, expected to begin soon.

Suggests Three Gunmen . . .

Book Reopens Assassination Debate

by Frederick M. Winship

NEW YORK (UPI) — A new study of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy claims that three gunmen were involved and all of them hit their mark.

The major conclusions contained in a book by Dr. Josiah Thompson of Haverford College, Haverford, Pa., were made public in advance of their publication in an article in the Saturday Evening Post next week.

The Thompson book, "Six Seconds in Dallas," is based on scientific analysis of an amateur movie made by Abraham Zapruder, a bystander, interviews with eyewitnesses in Dallas, and original research among documents and photos in the national archives in Washington.

OSWALD INNOCENT?

The author concludes that Lee Harvey Oswald may not have fired a single shot in the crossfire that he alleges killed Kennedy and wounded Gov. John B. Connally of Texas. He argues that four bullets were fired and separate bullets wounded Kennedy and Connally, contrary to the Warren Commission's findings of three bullets, one of which wounded both men and one of which missed.

By techniques of superimposing sequential movie frames from the Zapruder film and analyzing them by means of a dissecting microscope, Thompson discovered that Kennedy and Connally gave every physical evidence of being hit by separate bullets, as Connally himself has insisted.

Thompson said these techniques enabled him to detect physical reactions indicating Kennedy was hit in the head by two almost simultaneous shots from opposite directions which snuffed out his life.

The author does not speculate on who was doing the shooting or what their motives were. He does relate testimony from eyewitnesses, some of whom he says were never questioned by Warren Commission investigators, that he feels points to more than three conspirators.

WANTS NEW INQUIRY

Thompson said Wednesday he hopes the evidence he has unearthed suggesting a conspiracy involving three gunmen will force a new official investigation of the case.

"I think if the case is not reopened now, after the publication of my book, it won't be reopened," he said.

"With few exceptions, all the evidence discussed in this study was available to the Warren Commission," Thompson wrote in his book. "But the Commission, in its unimpeachable evaluation of the facts and its predisposition to prove Lee Harvey Oswald the assassin, overlooked much of

U.S. Hits Red Positions, Bombs New Target

Johnson Sends Secret Note To Egyptian Chief

CAIRO (UPI)—President Johnson has sent a secret message to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt on the Middle East crisis, informed sources said Thursday.

The sources did not divulge the contents of the message, which reportedly was sent to Nasser through the U.S. mission in Cairo. American diplomat Donald C. Bergus met a high-ranking Arab official outside office hours Monday, when he was believed to have handed over the message.

Diplomatic sources in Cairo said they believed an Israeli drive to postpone the Latin America Middle East resolution in the United Nations General Assembly did not imply rejection of the measure. The resolution calls for Israeli withdrawal from captured Arab territory.

The sources said it appeared that Israel wanted time to prepare domestic opinion at home for acceptance of such a conciliatory resolution.

back after two weeks of bitter fighting in which they lost over 700 dead by official count but killed at least 121 American defenders and wounded 698 other U.S. soldiers.

"There are indications they may be withdrawing back into Laos," said Maj. Gen. William Peers, a former guerrilla fighter who commands the 4th Infantry. But he added quickly "I expect another war to be fought to the north of here. That's where the North Vietnamese 34th Regiment is."

LONGEST BATTLE

The 34th and two other North Vietnamese regiments—an estimated 6,000 men in all—have been attempting to overrun Dak To in what Peers called the longest sustained battle of the war in the strategically important central highlands 280 miles north of Saigon.

In North Vietnam, U.S. Navy Skyhawk jets from the carrier Coral Sea took advantage of a slight break in the monsoon weather to bomb the barge-repair facility named Halphong Shipyard No. 2, located one mile west of the city's center and 1.4 miles from its main docks.

Eight-year-old Mary Ann Karchner shares a story with her guest, Gabriela Freeman, leader of the first group from the Experiment in International Living to come to Brigham Young University. The 10 students and professional people, all from Mexico, are living with families in Provo and attending classes during their six-weeks' stay to "see how it is" in a University town.

Freedom's In Wyoming; Bliss Is In New York

If you're seeking Bliss, try New York. Sublimity is in Oregon. Freedom is in Wyoming. Security in Colorado, and Concord in California.

These are just a few of the towns Brigham Young University students call home, according to the new campus directory. The University's 20,372 students come from every state in the nation and 60 foreign countries.

Try your history on these towns named for famous persons: Scipio, Utah; Clovis, Calif.; and Raleigh, N.C. Or if you are literary, there are Shelley, Idaho; Othello, Wash.; Whitier, Calif.; Byron, Wyo.; Ovid, Ida.; Quincy, Wash.; and Fielding, Utah.

BEVERAGES

There are towns that read like a beverage menu: Cokeville, Wyo.; Sugar City, and Soda Springs, Ida.; Orange, Calif.; Whiskey Gap, Alberta; Cocoon, Ida.; Lemon Grove, Calif.; and Coffeyville, Kansas.

Kentucky owns Lone Oak, but California has Thousand Oaks, Sherman Oaks, a Live Oak, Palmadele and 29 Palms to boot.

Who says America isn't religious? BYU students hail from Temple City, Calif.; Mission, Tex.; Falls Church, Va.; Cathedral City, Calif.; Priest River, Ida.; Bishop, Calif.; Counselor, N. Mex.; Shaker Heights, Ohio; and Quaker Hill, Conn.

ANIMALS

Of course, animals are strong in town names: Duckwater, Nev.; Birdseye, Utah; Eagle, Idaho; Sowsville, Ala.; Cowpens, S. C.; Beaver, Utah; Whitehorse, Yukon; and Salmon, Ida.

If life is hot in Diablo, Calif., you can have your pick of Eden, Ida.; Olympia, Wash.; or California's Arcadia, Alhambra, or Paradise.

International Experiment. . .

Ten Mexicans Stay In Provo

Ten neighbors from Mexico are spending six busy weeks at BYU as guests of ten families cooperating in the Experiment in International Living.

This is the first time BYU has been host to one of these groups. The Experiment is a private program in existence since 1962 that sponsors "living abroad" experiences between members of different nations.

Group leader Gabriela Freeman laughs off the idea that anyone in the group is homesick. "We are all very happy. We live with very wonderful families and we do something different every day."

TEACHER VACATIONS

She is a kindergarten teacher on vacation until Nov. 23, thanks to readjusted school schedules because of the Olympic Games in Mexico City. Most of the group are either students or professional people in or near the city of Orizaba in the Southern state of Veracruz.

The group was planning to spend its six weeks at a Tennessee university but something came up and the Mexican national director called a friend.

The friend, Ken Karchner of Provo, is a new member. He led his first group of eastern students to Latin America last year and spent a month with Gabriela's family. Ken's family is now returning the hospitality.

NINE FAMILIES

The other nine participating families are those of Chuck Peterson, Ariel Anderson, Joseph Halen, Dr. Israel Heaton, Rex Taylor, LeRoy Springer, Dr. Brian Jacobs, Raymond Beckham, and Dr. Armin J. Hill.

The group is participating in their field classes as special adult students, and all are taking English as a second language class, since some members are getting along mostly with gestures. Gabriela enjoyed her visit to a Spanish class. "We found some very good friends," she smiled. "All of us had a special interest to make an exchange."

THIRD VISIT

This is Gabriela's third visit to the States, head of her great-grandfather. She then went on the individual plan, first to Philadelphia in 1960, then to Fresno.

Differences the group has spotted are, the climate (Orizaba is quite humid at this season of year) and the food. "Americans seem to eat at every moment she chuckled. Eating hours also for adjustment. At home Gabriela eats at 1 or 2 p.m. and dinner at 8 p.m."

ROMAN CATHOLICS

An indication that the program is successful, at least for Gabriela, came in a spontaneous hug from eighty-year-old Mary Ann Karchner. "She is my little sister." All members of the group are Roman Catholics. Gabriela said she tried to describe her impression of a Mormon Sunday School, but that the Mormons live in reality their religion.

Sun Devils Prepare Hot Reception

that night the Cougar season record would have been a lousy 9-1, with only a loss to Wyoming marring the bid for an undefeated season.

The day off last weekend gave the 'Devils time to get several key players out of the infirmary while the Cougars were adding one more casualty to a growing list.

BOYETT OUT

Starting flanker Casey Boyett, among the nation's top twenty receivers, suffered a broken ankle against the Wildcats and is out for the season.

Senior Lloyd Jacobsen has taken over at the flanker spot.

All-America candidate Phil Odle will be counted on to keep the highly-regarded ASU defense honest as he seeks to gain the second-place spot on the all-time NCAA list for pass receptions.

ALL-AMERICA

The Sun Devils have a legitimate All-America aspirant of their own in middle guard Curley Culp.

The 6-1, 255-lb. senior was named the outstanding lineman in the country by Sports Illustrated for his performance against San Jose State earlier in the season in which he was in on 11 tackles, forced a fumble, recovered a punt and deflected a pass.

The ASU defense, which has set several school marks, will be out to contain the Cougar offense which is ninth in the nation.

Conversely, BYU's defensive unit, ninth nationally against rushing, will have to stop Arizona State's sixth-ranked offense.

The series between the schools stands at 8-3 in A favor.

NCAA Pass Receptions List

3rd	162	Chuck Hughes, Texas Western (1964-66)
4th	156	Phil Odle, BYU (1965-66-67)

Defensive Tackle Curley Culp, Arizona State's All-America candidate, will oppose BYU's running attack Saturday night.

Hoop Clinic Set
For Tomorrow

The BYU annual basketball clinic for coaches will be conducted tomorrow on campus with Phil Woolpert, former NCAA Coach of the Year, as featured lecturer.

The day-long clinic will begin at 9 a.m. on the third floor of the Wilkinson Center.

Besides Woolpert, whose teams at University of San Francisco ran up a string of 60 straight victories, guests will hear from Marcus Garrett, coach of Clearfield High School's Class A champions and Doug Moon, coach of the Class B champions from Uintah High School.

The clinic is open to all high school, junior college and college basketball coaches who wish to learn more of the coaching side of the game.

Our-Game Season Ends...

Kittens Face Papooses Today

BYU's freshman football team is to end its four-game season with a happy note this afternoon when the Kittens host the University of Utah freshmen in Provo, in their first meeting nearly four weeks ago. The Kittens took a lopsided 55-13 decision from the Papooses. The return match at 2 p.m. Saturday where they dropped a 13-6 game to the Air Force freshmen.

24 RECORD
Since their conquest of the Utah freshmen in the opener, the Kittens have won one and lost one. They defeated the Utah State Ramblers, 28-9, in Provo, then traveled to Colorado Springs last Saturday where they dropped a 13-6 game to the Air Force freshmen.

While BYU was at the Air Force Academy, the University of Utah freshmen defeated Utah State, 7-3, and appears to be anxious for another chance at the Kittens.

QB OUT

Coach Dick Felt and the Kittens will enter the game without the services of starting quarterback Rick Jones, from Pocatello, Ida., who fractured his ankle in the Air Force game and is out for the season. Thus the quarterbacking chores will fall to Mark Hulse, Denver, Colo., and Ron Roberts, Orem, Utah.

Associate Sports Editor
Basketball coach Stan Watts has a variety card which opens the 1967-68 season against the University.

Let the first scent of basketball in the air already and coach Watts will preview his makings for coming season tonight in the usual freshman game at 7:30 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse.

TICKETS AVAILABLE
Tickets are still available for the game in the reception area of the Johnson Center. Cost is 50 cents for students, $1.00 for general admission and $1.50 for adults.

Radio KEYY (1650) will broadcast the game with play-by-play called by Dave Weiser. Coach Watts has a host of veterans returning from last year's state Athletic Conference championship team. Among them are: Jim Eakins, 6-11, who led the conference in field goal percentage, and 6-7 Kari Lirio, All-conference forward as a sophomore last year.

Also figuring big for the varsity team is the number six man on last year's team, Jon Dresser, 6-2 and who also saw a lot of action last year, and Randy Schouten, guard.

GUARD HOPEFULS
Other men who are trying a starting role on the guard are Lynn Parsons, 6-3 junior, Gary Foster, 6-2 transfer to American River Junior College in California where he was America, Mac Winkel, 6-2 All-conference transfer from Ricks College, and Doug Howell, 6-3 about on last year's freshman team, completing the forward line for Cougars are Gary Schneider, Bob Davis (6-4) and Bruce

Pigskin Prognostications

The Daily Universe board of prognosticators again invites BYU students and faculty to challenge its predictions on 15 top football games around the country this weekend.

To enter the competition, simply clip the following list of games, circle the teams at the left you think will win in each case, write your name and telephone number at the top and take the clipping to the Universe office, 526 HLMC before 5 p.m. today (Friday). Only one entry per person.

The person submitting the entry with the best record will have his predictions for the next week appear alongside those of the permanent board. If scores are included, they will decide the winner in the event of a tie.

Last week's winner with a 13-2 mark was Mike Jacobson, a freshman, majoring in political science from Inham, Idaho. He is joined on the panel by Ken Mitchell, assistant sports director at BYU.

Grid Challenge Issued; Jacobson Joins Panel

With just one week remaining in the college football season, Associate Sports Editor Glen Willardson is leading the Daily Universe panel of grid predictors with a 75-35 record (.664).

Sports Editor Gary Wood and the IBM 7940 follow at 75-39-5 (.638) and last year's winner, Gary Dayton of the Wilkinson Center Barber Shop, trails at 72-42-3 (.665).

Winner of the special Homecoming prize of a dinner for two in the Wilkinson Center Skyroom was Mike Jacobson, a freshman political science major from Inham, Idaho, who submitted an entry that tied for the lead last week at 13-2.

Jacobson's entry included scores of each of the games that gave him the edge over the other six challengers who had the same mark.

The games included on this week's poll (at left) are particularly challenging and BYU students and faculty members are invited to match their prognostication skill with that of the permanent members of the Universe board.

Basketball Entries Due Today

Intramural basketball entries are due today in 112 Richards Physical Education Bldg., according to John Hansen, Director of Intramurals.

Competition for intramural basketball will begin Monday, Nov. 27. Several locations are available for scheduling practices and will be assigned at the intramural office.

Grey uniforms are required for all basketball participants—the only exception being the use of completed ward uniforms.

Treats for the women's bowling team will be held Monday, Nov. 26, at 6:30 p.m. in the bowling lanes of the Wilkinson Center.

Hallowed tradition of "pinning" a girl is up-dated by Sprite bottle caps.

According to an independent survey (we took it ourselves), a startling new practice is becoming widespread on some college campuses.

Suddenly, fraternity men are no longer "pinning" the lovely young things that catch their eye.

Instead, they reach for a bottle of tart, tangling Sprite—and proceed to "cap" the object of their affections. Why has this come about? Perhaps because of what happens when you go through the ceremony of opening a bottle of Sprite. It fizzes! Roars! Buzzes! Tingles! Bubbles!

All of which makes for a much more moving moment than to simply "pin" a girl.

Then, too, the intimacy of two people engaged in the act of opening a bottle of Sprite in itself leads to strong emotional involvement.

Capped off, of course, by the sharing of a few sips of delicious abandon. (Tasting the tangling tartness of Sprite, that is.)

The beauty of the idea is that if the course of true love does not run smooth, you don't have to go to the trouble of getting back your pin.

You just buy another bottle of Sprite.

Junior English Exam Saturday

Saturday morning the Junior English Proficiency Exam will be given in the Joseph Smith Auditorium.

'Operation Retrieval'

"Operation Retrieval" for Canadian students will begin Monday with registration from 5 to 10 p.m. in 115 Jesse Knight Bldg.

The registration will acquaint students with the program which informs Canadian students about employment opportunities and economic trends in Canada.

The program, sponsored by the Department of Manpower and Immigration, is being implemented for the first time at BYU.

From the registration forms the student fills out, the Department will compile a weekly list of candidates which will be circulated to major Canadian employers.

If an employer is interested in a candidate, he will be given copy of the student's personnel form and the student will be notified.

Students whose last names begin with the letters K through Z will be tested at 7 a.m., and students whose last names begin with the letters A through J will be tested at 10 a.m.

Admission will be by student activity card with photo attached, and registration will begin 30 minutes before exam time.

All students should review the examination requirements on page 12 of the current class schedule. Passing this exam is a graduation requirement which should be completed during the junior year.

Only those students who have completed 60 semester hours and the freshman composition requirements are eligible to take the exam.

Students will be required to write an essay on a subject given to them by the examiner and complete multiple choice objective questions about English usage, punctuation, style, tone and organization.

Testing materials will be furnished except a soft lead pencil for the objective test and a pen for the essay.

View From The Attic ~ ~ ~ ~ ~ Life Is Worth Living

by Camilla Miner

There are certain things that make life worth living. My washboard is one of them. It's a beautiful instrument, made of heavy glass. (Bet you didn't know they made them out of glass.) I play it in a jug band with a few friends. We call ourselves the Society Relief Sisters.

So far we've made no public appearances, but you never know what the future holds. We understand Lady Bird Johnson discovered a folk group in Texas.

I wear the washboard around my neck. With thimble on my fingers I strum up and down in a semblance of rhythm. It makes a grating, ringing sound, so we call me the percussion section.

I occasionally double on the jug and gargle. The newest addition to my friend's apartment is a five foot canon. It was a gift from her brother. She keeps it in the living room and burns incense in the barrel. She's renamed her apartment the Cannon Center.

LOVES EARRINGS

This same friend shares my love of earrings. However, she's on kind of a tight budget so she wears the little plastic holders that come on cellophane wrapped bread. They make great earrings. She has a couple of different colored sets and dyes macaroni with food coloring to make matching necklaces.

Another thing that makes life worth living is to know the student activity card has come to some good. I met a guy who used his in Russia while visiting this summer.

The Russians were having a big political youth festival in the Kremlin and he, with other BYU students was watching. He got inside the lines and found himself in the midst of the Russian students.

A COMRADE

They wanted to know who he was so he whipped out his activity card and said, "Dubois, Dubois," pretending to be an American communist.

They called him comrade, put metals on his lapel and he marched with them before the reviewing stand to become the first BYU student to be reviewed by Koenig.

Clubs make life more bearable. (I mean the kind you join.) Just heard about a new one yesterday. It's called the Musal WOW. In order to join you have to be published in the Wye Magazine, or somewhere.

According to my informant, there is great significance behind the name "Musal" is an expletive in Spanish. WOW stands for Will O' the Wisp.

I'm contemplating writing a poem for this column so I can join.

Empty containers take up time and space. So taking inventory is as good as home as it is in a store—it will show you what you have and what needs replacing.

Film Tells Artist's Life

By Brent Petersen
Staff Writer

The life of a great artist, Rembrandt van Rijn, is the feature film now playing at the University Cinemas. The film, "Rembrandt," portrays this artist so that the audience knows the man, his desires and his loves.

"Rembrandt" picks up the life of the artist during his years of success and follows it to its closing days.

Charles Laughton, as Rembrandt, gains the sympathy and love of the audience with a superb performance, as do Gertrude Lawrence and Elsa Lanchester. In some scenes the action may seem over exaggerated or stressful, but this was the style in 18th century when the film was produced. That year, "Rembrandt" was named one of the ten best foreign films of the year by the National Board of Review.

In 1966 the National Film Theater said of it: "Artistically stands up magnificently; time has merely emphasized its quality as a delicate talk of progress."

Those interested in a warm production and in a great art will surely enjoy this film.

Y Graduate's 'Stringquartet' Wins Contest

A six-hundred dollar first prize was won by Kenneth Hicken when he won the All Dominion Composition Contest in Canada recently. Hicken's winning composition, String Quartet, was originally written for his Master's Thesis at BYU. Although he began his master's work at the University of Southern California, he returned to the Y because of the greater opportunity he found there.

Now the head of the Music Department at the University of Lethbridge at Alberta, Ken is working on his Doctor's Degree through BYU.

The String Quartet is written in twelve tone style. Hicken was a member of Merrill Bradshaw's Composition class while he was attending the Y.

Trio To Perform

The Mini Mutes put on a performance of pantomime with white face make-up Wednesday and Thursday night. The show continues through Saturday.

Mini Mutes Is Success

by Camilla Miner
Culture Editor

If you love talent and imagination, you owe it to yourself to see a Mini Mutes tonight or Saturday at 8 p.m. in The Old Church at the corner of 300 N. and University.

The most exciting thing about a show is not that it's entertaining and professionally done—but that it was an original idea. Randy Hopkins and his three cohorts that really came off. So any ideas die aborning.

Realizing ideas takes a lot of hard work and "The Good Guys and The Bad Guys," the first performance Wednesday night, shows that Mark Nielson, Pat Boyette and Linda Smart with Mr. Hopkins and the eight boys, worked the four producers are all BYUrama students.

APPEALING PERFORMANCE

The show has all the appeal of "Seamstress." For some reason it's a watch children imitating adults. They are so honest.

From the printing of tickets and programs, to props, to the final train call the show is polished. It's all pantomime. The printed program describes the special quality of this form in a quotation from Marcel Marceau: "By identity."

Photo Show

The Springville Art Gallery ended the first of the month with its first Annual Intermountain Photography Show. This show, destined to become an annual event, will run until Nov. 30. Photographs exhibited in the retail show held at the Utah Historical Society which are representative of Utah scenery are also in show.

"We feel photography is a vital part of the whole art program," said G. Bruce, director of the gallery. "We hope to see a yearly show come from this that will be some of the best in the country."

The gallery hours are Tuesdays through Fridays 10 a.m. to 12 p.m., 1 p.m. to 5 p.m.; Saturdays and Sundays from 2 to 5 p.m. There is admission charge. The gallery is located at 120 E. S., Springville.

Fall Footwear Shows Patents, Square Toes, For Year's Fashions

by Jill Lebovitz
Universe Fashion Writer

This year's fashion is going gang-bang style, according to some shoe designers. To add to the returning '20's look, patent leather is in the lead in this year's favorite shoe race. Polished chunky heels and ankle straps make the new styles saucy.

PATENT POPULAR

Primarily for daytime, patent leather is making its entrance alone or in unusual combinations. Short, but curving heels make the ankle appear thinner, while higher, chunky heels do the opposite.

Broad, squared-off toes, for day, are the most popular. Sometimes a giant buckle is added or strips of reptile used for emphasis. One of the most dramatic styles, is a canary yellow patent with a deeply boxed toe and large, wooden buckle.

With the variety of evening shoes, no girls need attend a ball in glass slippers. Gold or silver lame pumps, important shoes this fall, look rich and glamorous with their rhinestone heels.

Other dressy numbers: gaspacho-red or brilliant yellow team with contrasting heels and clear "marble" toe buttons.

REFRESHING STYLES

All the styles are refreshing, having no precedent from last season. Red patent has turned in a blazing new shade—wildfire; brown patent is here with an inset of the softest suede; avocado green is stunning in shiny patent. Shoes are fun this year because there is not set style or color to be followed.

Spike heels and pointed toes are OUT, while fatter heels and square toes are chic, for both day and evening wear.

Seven stars in one picture? Why?

Because a story as grand as SPARTACUS has to be told in the grand manner. One, two, three stars four stars weren't quite enough. Master of fact, writer Peter G. Wilson, said: "That's why for one scene the producers marshaled 10,000 extras onto a plain in Yugoslavia. That's why the Agrippa ship had to be recreated. That's why Rome had to be rebuilt in almost a day. All this to bring you screen excitement! Screen entertainment on a scale worthy of the great adventure. See SPARTACUS. You'll never forget it."

D, E Slips To Be Mailed This Week

This week "D and E slips" will begin appearing in the mail.

The midsemester progress reports are being sent to students under the direction of the Academic Standards Office. The reports inform students with a D or E grade to date of the reasons for their poor grades.

The progress note indicates whether the grade weakness is caused by attendance, low tests, preparation, work not in, work quality, participation, or other reasons.

Teachers are required to turn in to the Academic Standards Office an indication of D and E students.

Students, parents of freshmen, faculty advisers and personnel workers will be sent a copy of the progress report.

The student who receives a D or

E slip is asked to counsel with his instructor so that together they may work out an improvement plan.

The student also is requested to visit with his faculty adviser for assistance.

According to Academic Standards Office, failing students may receive help from Counseling vice which assists in educational, vocational, and personal problems.

Help is offered through Guidance Studies teaching study techniques and remedial reading. The Academic Standards Office also provides information about time getting, tutors, academic standards and class standing.

Modern Dance To Be Shown At Fall Display

"Orchestrus" presents its annual fall concert tonight and Saturday n the Pardo Drama Theater, at 8:15 p.m.

The evening is described by publicity manager Blain Chambers as
"a demonstration to the introduction of modern dance, ballet and jazz" and involves a score of BYU dancers from Orchestrus and Corps de Ballet.

The program begins with a ballet section, "Pas de Trois," where three girls warm up at the exercise bar consisting of the arms of three boys.

A glimpse of current Broadway dancing comes from "Manne" and an 11 minute sequence from "Slaughter on 10th Avenue."

Mechanical Engineer Alumnus Wins Award

BYU graduate Bill Hughes captured first place in the national American Society for Mechanical
Engineers Student Paper contest.

Hughes, graduated last spring in Mechanical Engineering, plans to use the prize money when he returns next year to do graduate work.

The award was given for the presentation of Hughes' research paper on Automotive Steering Systems. He received an honorary plaque and $250 at the ASME Convention held in Pittsburgh, Penn.
Monday, Tuesday and Wednesday of this week.

TWO YEARS
Two years of hard work and an active ASME chapter are Hughes' reasons why he won. Hughes has been researching this subject independently.

Presently working with International Harvester, Hughes noted he would like to do more work with this subject in the future.

BYU has had a representative at the National Convention for the past four years. To go to the nationals, the school must win first in the local region contest.

Representing BYU also were faculty members Dr. Howard Heaton,
ASME head of BYU's chapter, and
Dr. John Simonsen, head of the Mechanical Engineering Department.
